Seven Teams In Tourney To Date Crisci Announces

Tourney General Chairman Franklyn Crisci Would Like To Have Ten Teams

FINAL MEETING ON NEXT TUESDAY

A meeting of the softball teams of New Castle and Lawrence county was held at the "X" last night with Tourney General Chairman Franklyn Crisci in charge and seven teams represented. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the progress of the tourney and to plan for the final meeting on Tuesday.

The following teams will try for the championship: Radiators, Boro A. C., Nobis, Reifers, Wabash Bears, Spencers, Tigers Club, out of the city league, and it is understood that Denny Schall of Ellwood City will enter a couple of fast teams in the tourney.

The winner of the tourney here will play at Pittsburgh in the Western Pennsylvania regional tourney. The winner of the western tourney will meet the winner of the eastern tourney for the state title.

On account of the amateur boxing show, Mr. Crisci has postponed the tourney meeting from Monday night to Tuesday night. He announced today that all managers of all city league teams must be present at the meeting next Tuesday. There is considerable important business to be discussed.

Committee Chosen
Mr. Crisci last evening at the meeting introduced the tourney idea here and explained to the teams in minute detail the workings of the tourney. All of the teams are anxious for the tourney to start.

The following tourney working committee was named by President Crisci: Fred Marcella, chairman; Paul Cuba, Bennie Ciccone and Frank Leonard.

All Teams Eligible
The fields for the tourney will be chosen by Frank Stansbury, of Pittsburgh, together with Mr. Crisci, when Mr. Stansbury pays a visit here to the level softball game. It is hoped that the tourney can be gotten under way in a week or two.

Any unaffiliated team in the county is eligible for the tourney.

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service

NEW YORK, July 30.—The stock market today recovered some of the ground lost in yesterday's reaction. Stocks opened quiet and steady and then, after a lull, gains ran to around a point in the Dow Jones industrial average. Huge Stone Will Serve As Memorial For River Victims

(International News Service)
CLEARFIELD, Pa., July 30.—Memories of the ill-fated "last raft" were recalled here today as rivermen began digging a two-ton boulder from its rocky bend stronghold for transportation to Burnside where it will be used as a memorial to those who lost their lives last spring. The removal of the rock will eliminate one of the many obstacles which rivermen had to negotiate in bringing their log rafts down the river to the mills. Dedication of the memorial is planned for the annual rivermen's reunion at Burnside August 8 to 13.

Father Divine And Followers In New "Haven"

Three-Hundred Of 'Angels'
Mostly Colored Set Up
Hudson River

OWNER OF LAND IS VERY HAPPY

(International News Service)
HIGHLAND, N. Y., July 30.—Father Divine, who rose from sidewalk evangelist to across-the-river neighbor of President Roosevelt, today moved a vanguard of "angels" into the newest, swankiest promised land. Three hundred of his "angels," mostly colored, were encoined this morning on the 500-acre estate of Howland Spencer, boyhood friend, manhood critic and distant kin by marriage to the president. Within 10 days, Spencer reported happily, 3,000 "angels" will be swarming over the place. They'll repaint the buildings in Father Divine's own colors—brilliant yellow with brilliant red trim. They'll turn living rooms into dormitories, latrines into cabbage fields, and they'll sing night and day about the wonders of Father Divine. All this the president can see from his library window, practically within shouting distance of the ex-Spencer place.

Will Work Farm.

"It's going to be a wonderful experiment," said the millionaire anti-New Dealer, "Timothy Divine's a great man. His philosophy is terrific. He's going to farm this place and show that this philosophy can triumph over the president's. 'Peace! Peace!' roared a handful of angels who had heard Spencer mention their god in approving terms. "It's wonderful! It's wonderful!" came shouts from all around. Spencer looked pleased. He went on to state that, emphatically, he wasn't turning his estate over to the diviners in a malicious spirit. He said the trouble was that he couldn't hire labor to work the place even though he has a standing offer of 45 cents an hour. "Relief has spoiled so many people," he said. "They'd rather get money for nothing than work for it. This Father Divine, though, has different ideas. He won't let a follower go on relief. They've all got to work." Male vanity at its silliest: Feeling superior to his neglected wife when everybody in town knows she is far above him.

GOVERNOR SIGNS BILLS EXPECTED TO HALT JURY JROBE

Don't—defeated at every turn in a 10 weeks' battle through the courts—carried out its "last resort" move against the judiciary.

Governor Earle and 13 other high-ranking Democrats are named in the accusations which the chief executive has insisted be brought "in the open."

Expect Attack On Bills.

Test suits attacking the constitutionality of all four investigation bills were expected to be brought within the next few days.

Reports at the capital indicated either District Attorney Carl E. Shelley, heading the Dauphin county grand jury investigation which is scheduled to start August 8, or other opponents of the legislation, would appeal directly to the state supreme court.

Although the court is now in summer recess, its members would accept into session by Chief Justice John W. Kephart.

Shelley, to be subpoenaed to testify on his charges of bribery, extortion, blackmail and misconduct, was thought in some quarters to be avoiding his summons before the house committee before acting. Under the new legislation, the house may impose on contempt citation any witness refusing to testify under oath or produce demanded records.

Speaker To Name Probers.

As weary representatives rose from seats they had occupied every day this week, the house approved a resolution authorizing Speaker Roy E. Furman to name the seven-member committee that will investigate the sensational primary campaign charges.

At the same time, the Democratic Floor Leader, Herbert H. Cohen, introduced a bill providing an appropriation for the committee to interpret the constitution, the amount unspecified.

Furman revealed he would announce his appointees to the investigating body Monday. They were expected to include four, and possibly five, Democrats. The committee itself will select counsel to conduct the investigation.

Dropped from the counter-investigation program as amended was one of five original Cohen bills providing that grand jury proceedings against public officers accused of misconduct be "open" instead of secret. A barrage of telegraphic protests and opposition within the Democratic majority itself caused the item to be dropped.

Senate Vote On Bills.

House Bill One—Granting the house power over grand juries in investigating misconduct charges against public officers, if it acts within 90 days after accusations have been called to its attention. Passed, 27-18.

House Bill Two

Authorizing house investigation of each charges giving the speaker power to name its committee, and authorizing presentation of evidence by the attorney general. Amendment of the bill in the senate ruled out presentation of evidence by district attorneys. Passed, 27-16.

House Bill Three

Clarifying the with the Republicans in addition attorney general's right to super-side district attorneys, a power designated Attorney General Guy K. Bard in the current grand jury probe by Judge Paul N. Schaeffer, presiding over the probe from the bench since the House Bill Five—suspending "re-fractively as well as prospectively any other pending investigation of such charges—including the Dauphin county probe—pending completion of the house inquiry passed, 27-18.

Cavalante Leads Revolt

State Sen. Anthony Cavalcante, a Packer Democrat, announced today that he was withdrawing his support from the investigation bills that he introduced in the 1937 regular session, but the revolt against the four bills that reached the upper house.

Cavalcante, speaking before a crowded chamber in the early hours this morning, declared the legislation would "paralyze" the judicial system in all cases now pending in the courts.

He charged it would halt pending cases against civil officers in counties through the state. In support of his claim, he cited election fraud cases and other local "real" offenses might be involved.

Senator Charles R. Egan, Somerset Republican, floor leader, followed Cavalcante in opposing the measures, along with Sen. J. Albert Reed, D. Washington, and Sen. G. Mason O'Leary, R. Troy. All urged defeat of the program asked by governor Earle in his opening address before the special session Monday night.

Support Bills

In support of the bills, Sen. Harry Shapiro, D. Philadelphia, repeated nothing in the state constitution bears any reference to grand juries, and that:

"There is nothing in the constitution that prevents an act, county from proceeding and making arrests, detaining and convicting guilty persons."

Cavalcante made the point of referring attention to sections of the constitution which he said, stating the words "and" and "unlike" were not to be interpreted as a "clear" reference to grand jury cases and grand jury proceedings, but as a "clear" reference to grand jury proceedings in the state courts.

Democratic Senators, rallying to the defense of the bills, retorted Governor Earle's charge that the bills were part of a "political conspiracy" to "smear" his administration on the eve of the fall political campaign and election.

Charges By Margiotti

When the "rioters" making "bought legislation" and "bought" were first named as that for former Attorney General, Charles J. Margiotti, then a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Governor Earle announced that he would have evidence in that respect made by made Margiotti refused, insisting upon a grand jury investigation and he was dismissed by the governor. He then took his evidence to the legislature.

Full Crew Battle Is Finally Ended In Dauphin Court

Presentation Of Testimony Finished, Set September 13 As Argument Day

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 30.—A year-old legal battle over the constitutionality of Pennsylvania's controversial full crew act ended Friday in Dauphin county court as presentation of testimony in test of the measure was concluded.

Court officials declared the case is probably the longest ever tried in the court and estimated the transcript testimony will consist of 1,000 typewritten pages.

Judge John E. Fox set September 13 as the argument date for the bill. The measure has been opposed by 47 railroads operating in Pennsylvania as a "make work" measure which is not directly related to the safety of train passengers and crews.

The bill requires an additional brakeman on passenger trains over 10 cars and freight trains over 50 cars.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)
Copyright 1938 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

As fine an example of square-dealing, right and left and straight across the middle, as fine an example of clean, straightforward Americanism as we have ever seen in the ranks of Big Business, arrives today at his 75th milestone on the road of life, Mr. Henry Ford as the most interesting combination of simplicity and shrewdness, of diamond-hard business acumen and childlike idealism I know of.

The inspired mechanic of 50 years ago is a poet at heart—a lover of the fine, old things which distinguished America a century ago and more. One side of his personality has created a huge industrial empire, the greatest controlled by a single intelligence, reckoning Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, as one directing mind.

The other side of that personality turns to sentiment, the preservation and restoration of beautiful old things—whether it be a colonial village or the farmhouse where the McGuffeys were born, or a spinning wheel or a coach and four.

One measure of Mr. Ford's importance is that he pays wages of $50,000 every working day to about 122,000 workers in the United States. A quite different measure of his value as a citizen is his devotion to old American ideals, his refusal to be budged by the assault of newisms and ideologies, and his enthusiastic effort to remind his fellowmen that money and the machine are by no means everything in life.

Just what the sum total of his possessions may be is, of course, a matter of conjecture. He is probably the richest man in the United States and no bank or financial group has any strings tied to him. He is, if figures don't lie, the only American billionaire—the only man, who can set down his fortune in more than nine figures. He is one of the few toweringly rich men who have kept clear of Wall Street and of the often devious manipulations of high finance.

The Ford fortune, which may aggregate a billion and a quarter taking the worth of his company and the personal fortunes of himself and his son, Edsel, is undoubtedly one of the cleanest and more respectable fortunes that was ever built up by genius, perseverance and foresight. It was built up as the natural reward of giving the people what they wanted, without taking from the people more than a fair and measured profit. And the story of its origin and its growth is to me one of the most fascinating stories in all the annals of this land of opportunity.

There were 12 men in it at the beginning, 35 years ago—June 16th, 1903, to be exact. Eleven of them had money. The 12th had only an idea. But Malcolmson, the coal merchant, had faith in the 12th man's idea and he started the subscription list. His clerk, Jim Couzens, came forward with his savings of $899, and another $100 borrowed from his sister.

James Gray, a friend of Malcolmson's, chipped in with ten thousand dollars for which they elected him president.

Henry Ford has in material wealth everything beyond the dreams of man? And why? Because of a will that would not break. Because of a perseverance which would not falter. Because he trusted himself when all men doubted!

Dewey Preparing Sensational List

New York District Attorney Will "Blow-Lid Off" With Sensational Exposures

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey Friday was drawing up a list of judges and other officials he accuses James J. Hines, Tammany leader and his co-defendants of bribing and intimidating.

The list, expected to blow the lid off one of the greatest political scandals in the city's history, will be presented to supreme court justice Ferdinand Pecora on Tuesday and will be turned over by the court to Lloyd P. Stryker, chief of Hines' counsel.

Will Furnish Dates.

Dewey also will furnish the defense with the specific date in March 1932, when, he charges, Hines sat at a conference and plotted bribery of judges as his part in the $100,000,000-a-year Dutch Schultz policy syndicate.

Nearly all of the legal skirmishing preliminary to the trial of Hines and his co-defendants is over. Justice Pecora has yet to rule on the defense motion asking for minutes of the grand jury that indicted Hines. This is the only motion remaining before the court.

Justice Pecora will soon set a date for drawing a blue ribbon panel from which to select a jury to try Hines and his alleged co-conspirators.

AROUND CITY HALL

Recommendations for a change in assessment on certain properties, offered by A. C. Shoaf, the city assessor, has been adopted by council.

One recommendation said the Lehigh Portland Cement company had two dwellings in the Third ward and assessment totaling $500, should be struck from the 1938 tax books. Another recommendation said that in 1932 a property owned by the Arent estate, at 315 Preston avenue, and assessed at $500, had been removed. However, the assessor had not been notified. Shoaf said, and the assessment remained on the city books until 1934. The taxes were paid and a refund was recommended.

Not everybody is as well acquainted with the operation of parking meters as are the motorists of this city. For instance in North Jefferson street, Friday afternoon an autoist from Sandy Lake packed his car, placed a nickel in the slot and then asked William Isaacs, city's meter money collector, "Isn't there something you get from the meter to hang on your car to show you have paid?"
